

Patrick MacLeamy, AIA
CEO, The HOK Group, Inc.

Patrick MacLeamy is Chief Executive Officer of HOK, a global architectural design and services firm. Appointed to this position in March 2003, he leads the firm's strategic vision and direction.

During his 36-year tenure at HOK, Mr. MacLeamy has served in leadership roles in design, project management, marketing and management. He also has overseen the establishment of several HOK regional offices in the U.S. and Asia.

Mr. MacLeamy is committed to helping establish standards of quality, reliability and efficiency in the building industry. He advocates changing the fragmented nature of the industry into a vertically integrated, highly efficient system that emulates the manufacturing industry.

Mr. MacLeamy has supported this vision as a founder and international Chairman of the International Alliance for Interoperability (IAI), an organization which fosters standards for data exchange in the building industry. He is also an active speaker and panelist for building industry forums including Construction Users Roundtable (CURT), the Construction Industry Roundtable (CIRT), and the AIA Large Firm Roundtable.